JUDGE PORTER WRITES OF THE WEST

Wonderful Growth of Kansas City and Its Immense Stock Yards.
City of Pittsburg, Kas.

Editor Pensacola Journal:

Our last was written from Kansas City. No city of the great west has had more phenomenal growth, and increase in business, than that city, and none could have been begun, or continued, in a more unfavorable location, so far as the surface of land is concerned; and millions of dollars have been expended in bringing said surface into condition for buildings. Hills have been leveled, and valleys filled and streets graded, and aside from a small portion yet subject to inundation, it is a great and beautiful city. The stock yards and stock men were of greatest interest to your correspondent. Indeed, Mr. Editor, Florida real estate owners and operators could do no better than to keep a good working acquaintance at these yards, to meet the large number of stock men who are there from time to time, and men who could, and should, be had for our country, if they were made to understand the opportunities we could offer. I insist that we of the South do not know, and understand, the people of the North and West. And they certainly have a grave misunderstanding of us and our country, and this is the first and great thing to be overcome—before any great rush will be secured. These stock yards are now as large as those of Chicago when Kansas City began to be a stock market, and they are vastly superior in all their appointments to those of Chicago forty years ago. They have not only the covered and open pens, and streets and alleys, but a system of elevated bridges or viaducts leading from one pen to another of pens, so that stock can be transferred from one extreme to another of the yards, or to any exit, without encountering a jam or mixing of lots or herds. Ten thousand head of cattle were received and handled the day of our visit. This number is only about a half of a good day's receipts in a busy time. Amongst these we saw a good share of first-class beefs, weighing 1,500 pounds and above, and of these we noted some of the best were what is called "Western," that is, high grades, bred up from the Texas breed, and what has been done in the past two decades with wild Texas cattle can be done in half the time with our native, diminutive range cattle, and what a loss it is to our section of Florida that the work is not already done on a large scale.

And how we longed to see car loads of those high grade, or full blood Herefords and short horns in our West Florida pastures.

Our next journey lay from Kansas City to Pittsburg, Kas., which is in the extreme southeast corner of the state, and is a beautiful location, and has a population of over fifteen thousand inhabitants. It is a mining town and this, Crawford county, boasts of being eighth (8th) in the list of great coal producing counties in the United States, and its entire output is consumed in manufacture of zinc, in the largest zinc producing district of the world, which is about thirty-five miles south of this city in Missouri. I said this was a mining city, but the coal lying near the city has been largely mined in the early days of the place and now some of the large number claimed as belonging to the city are several miles out, but the owners, as well as a large proportion of the laborers, have their homes in the city and for a city of its size we have never seen so many fine homes, and so few that were poor, or neglected. The plan and map of the city is grand, and affords ample opportunity for beautiful surroundings, and we saw a miner just from his deep, dark work below, without removing his working clothes, filling, raking and smoothing the grounds around his comfortable cottage. Here are found one natives of every country of Europe, and every one of those who are temperate and industrious are prosperous and good citizens, and respectable and respected as if to the manor born.

Here we met the first Chautauqua ever undertaken in this city and the attendance and interest, up to this writing is full warrant of success. Among the speakers are several who are known to West Florida Chautauquans. Sam E. Jones, who has considerable new names for his hearers, and a few new illustrations, but did not draw as large crowd as Capt. Jack Crawford or Col. Geo. W. Bain. Captain Hobson is to speak this afternoon, and with the increasing interest he will have a full house.

With this we are off for the broad prairies of Kansas and the heights of Colorado. Yours,

JOHN THOS. PORTER.

CREW OF CAUCUS WILL NOT LEAVE UNTIL SATURDAY.

It is expected that the crew of the dredge Caucus, composed of about thirty men, would leave here last Saturday night for New York to take charge of the dredge and bring her around to Pensacola, but the plans were changed and the men did not get away. They will leave, however, next Saturday night.

Buy it Now.

Now is the time to buy Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is certain to be needed sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly—you will need it quickly. Buy it now. It may save life. For sale by all druggists.

New York Stock Market.
New York, July 17.—The market opened higher on the execution of large buying orders in some of the principal stocks. There was a heavy accumulation of Union Pacific at an advance of 3/4 to 1/2 over Saturday on running sales. Tennessee Coal gained 1 1/2. Metropolitan Street Railway 1 1/2. Illinois Central and Colorado Fuel large fractions. There was a loss of a point in National Biscuit and United States Steel declined a small fraction.

New York Cotton Market.
New York, July 17.—The cotton market opened quiet, at an advance of 7 points to a decline of 7 points. Near months were influenced by covering and a moderate demand from professional bull support and in the absence of important offerings ruled generally steady and ranged about 5 to 6 points net higher. Rumors of a fresh acreage estimate by the bureau of statistics helped the advance.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.
Children Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "It happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle she was well." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

GRAND OPENING

OF MORRIS DANNHEISSER'S BRAND NEW SALOON ON WEST ZAR. RAGOSA STREET.

I, the undersigned beg to inform my many friends and the public in general that I have again opened the doors of a first-class saloon.
It is hardly necessary to introduce myself to the public, having been the senior partner of the firm of Dannheisser Bros for about 18 years.
It is nearly a year ago when I dissolved partnership. After dissolution I went to Pittsburg to engage in business again. I am now ready to serve you with the finest and best brands of liquors and cigars, and beg to inform you that my aim and motto will be, polite treatment, fair and honest dealing, and nothing misrepresented. I shall keep polite and experienced bartenders and shall endeavor to make you feel at home, when you enter my saloon. I will also call your attention that I have a special wholesale department. I have engaged Mr. Julius Gugenheim, a young man well known here, to solicit your patronage, and any order he may receive will be carefully and promptly attended to.
My prices are as low as possible.
Free fish chowder on my opening day.
Soliciting your kind patronage, I am
Yours for good liquors,
MORRIS DANNHEISSER.
